NIGHT FAIR IS BEST EVER HELD

Gorgeous Fireworks Display Exceeds Any Ever Seen Here—Free Acts Popular.

Although a chilly breeze blew Tuesday night, the first of the big night fair, and skies were overcast, the full program was run through, and was enthusiastically received by the 400 or 500 people who watched from the grandstand and bleachers.

Difficulty in the lighting system made the midway a gloomy place early in the evening, but this was soon remedied and barkers got busy crying their wares. As soon as the lights had been arranged the free acts started directly opposite the grandstand.

They opened with the La Telle sisters, giving a spectacular exhibition of hanging by the teeth from dizzy heights. Many changes of costume made this act still more effective.

Other good acts were Lorenzo, the original cowboy singer, giving a comic tumbling act, Lloyd's Dog and Pony Circus, Lorraine's Troupe, on the tight wire, and the Riding Roomers.

The free acts reached a climax with the last one, the Four Sensational Elliotts, featuring head balancing, at high distance and a spectacular ending, with one of the quartet standing straight out from the flag pole and others in different poses.

Fireworks Display Commenced.

The big event of the evening, however, was the fireworks, and although it was a late hour when they started, the audience waited for them. And they were worth waiting for, exceeding by far any fireworks ever seen here, with enormous sky pieces of bursting stars that lighted up the whole grounds, first with a pale green shade, then with brilliant red-light. In addition to the sky fireworks, there were many imposing effects on frames in the ground.

Two More Night Programs.

Among the things pictured in glowing fireworks were King Tut's crown jewels, falls of Yosemite, a monster animal made more effective with screeches and yells, Vesuvius, Liberty fountain, a shooting Indian arrow, and an old mill. There were many other effects that were startling and beautiful. All ended with Old Glory coming to life, and glowing for several minutes on the sky.

This program will be repeated Wednesday and Thursday nights with slight variations and it is hoped without the lighting troubles that delayed Tuesday night's program.

Miss Marcelle Gernsheim, Milwaukee, is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Roach, Jr., 964 Benton avenue.

Miss Jessica George, 15 North High street, has returned from Chicago, where she spent several days at the J. B. Leahy home.

Rest Tent Again Performs Great Service to Public

Tuesday's intermittent showers made the Gazette Rest tent, in the rear, and a little to the west of the grandstand, a well liked place, and there were crowds there all afternoon. But the tent has advantages that will be popular all week, and it is expected the tent will perform even a greater service to the fair-going public than it has in the past.

The expected mammoth crowds Wednesday afternoon will find the tent a cool and comfortable place to rest limbs weary of walking up and down the midway and through the mazes of the exhibits.

The Gazette Rest Tent is more completely out-fitted this year than ever before, and Mrs. George T. Smiley, the attendant in charge, will give all women and children who wish to use its advantages, prompt and courteous attention. A large number of people who use the tent are obliged in no way whatever. Chairs and davenport have been provided, and for those who may be taken suddenly ill, or exhausted, there is a sitting room where is found a cot and other conveniences.

Children will be taken care of by Mrs. Smiley, and may even be left here while mother and father take in the sights. A large sand-box has been provided for them to play in, and they will enjoy a good rest here just as much as the adults.

Wedding Supper in Whitewater

Whitewater.—The marriage of Mrs. Emma H. Palmer, Milwaukee, to Peter Andersen, San Diego, Cal., took place in the Grand Avenue Methodist church, Milwaukee, at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Andersen came at once to the home of the bride, Gilbert Andersen, 707 Center street, where a wedding supper was served at 6 o'clock. Covers for eight were laid. Those present were: Messrs. and Mrs. Gilbert Andersen, Peter Andersen, and G. L. Barker and Mrs. William Blumson and Harry Tripple. The bride was the widow of the late W. G. Palmer, a druggist of Janesville. She has lived in Milwaukee the past 18 years. Her home will be in San Diego, where Mr. Andersen has lived for some time.

Miss Floyd Green Downey, White- water, and Carl L. Hackbart, Port Atkinson, were married in Rockford, Monday. They are spending their honeymoon at the Downey cottage, Lauderdale lake, and will at home in Port Atkinson after Sept. 1. Mrs. Hackbart is the youngest daughter of Capt. and Mrs. J. J. Downey and has lived in or near Whitewater until she accepted her present position, and a half ago in the office of the Musical Saw company, Port Atkinson.

WOMEN'S ENTRIES OVERFLOW FAIR

Quantity and Quality Apparent in Every Department—Fine Spirit Shown.

By MRS. ANNIE HELMS. Shelves full, cases full, and overflowing into every available nook and corner is the rule in all departments of the domestic building at the Janesville fair, until the attendants are at their wits' end to know what to do with the bountiful supply.

And the quantity of the exhibits is only equalled by the quality which is remarkably fine, far above the average.

There is a large display of flowers, the favorable season being of advantage to garden favorites. There is a fine showing of cacti and begonias, and even the common varieties of larkspur and phlox have fine blooms. There are also many floral designs and baskets offered by amateurs, among the latter a large basket of wild flowers is noticeable. Here are fine flowers, a large hydrangea and several other specimens of plants and floral designs. Among the professionals, J. T. Fitchell, Janesville, has a large display of dahlias artistically arranged; A. M. Fulmer, Janesville, has a fine exhibit of named gladioli; Alvin Nelson, Rockford, has a large display of gladioli; and the Janesville Floral company has a choice exhibit of plants and floral designs. Mrs. G. D. Cannon is in charge of this department.

More Women Exhibitors.

Mrs. Otto Lukas and Mrs. N. A. Hoberg, superintendents of the domestic art department, are justly proud of the exhibit in their line. Larger than ever before, and with many new and up-to-date things, is what they claim. Many of the old fashioned things have been eliminated from the list, and the newer kinds of work like flut, wool embroidery, cross stitch and applique work has been given space and place in the catalog. Consequently many more people are exhibiting, they say, and they are especially pleased that women from the farms are taking an interest and bringing in their work for exhibition.

The sheets and pillow case sets are the favorites, many exquisite sets being shown. Perhaps the next in order of numbers is the dresser scarfs of colored embroidery, about 25 of them being entered. Luncheon sets and bridge sets are also very popular, and there are many handsome pieces of applique work, there are nearly 50 knitted, crocheted, or tatting yokes, entered, and it is quite evident that all of them cannot secure first prizes. There is a class for women over 70 and there are some very beautiful specimens of knitting patch work quilts, mittens and crocheted bed slippers in this exhibit. A bed spread made from linen woven by hand is a unique specimen and it is altogether with lace made by the exhibitor.

Culinary Display Abundant.

There are no special prizes offered for angel food cakes and chocolate cakes as in former years, but in spite of that fact there are about 25 angel food cakes entered and about a dozen each of white layer chocolate, jelly food and coconut. The exhibit is larger than ever before according to Mrs. A. V. Schlatter, the superintendent, and is more evenly balanced, there being spirited competition in all departments. The cookies are especially tempting and the small boy stands in rapt contemplation of a cookie jar filled with samples. The canned fruit and jelly exhibit is also very full and is remarkably fine.

Art Division Larger.

The art department, with Miss Charlotte Prebhard as superintendent, is doing a splendid job. There are nearly double the articles entered that there have been in former years. The display of china is large and of unusual excellence, being nearly equal to that offered usually at the state fair. Some of the new things in lustre, enamel and etched gold are shown and are beautiful. There are a number of artists from outside the city competing, among them being Mrs. May Harison and Mrs. Chamberlain, Beloit; Mabel Kale, of Iowa; Mrs. McCurry and Mrs. Michmore, Roscoe; and Judith May Midgard, Stoughton.

Best Fairs Maintained.

The girls of the Y. W. C. A. are maintaining a rest tent on the grounds supplied with a baby crib, cot and comfortable chairs. It is located near the fence of the track down toward the grand stand. They are selling ice cream to help pay expenses. Mrs. Richard Taylor and Mrs. George Sprackling are in charge on Tuesday.

The women of the Service Star Legion also have a tent on the midway and are serving refreshments. Mrs. E. M. Fleury is in charge of the refreshment stand, and is making every one comfortable, with the many conveniences provided. It is located just back of and near the grand stand.

The best thing about a fair is its pure democracy. They are all equal at the fair, and the best ones win the prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Allen and family, 63 Milwaukee avenue, are back in the city after spending several weeks at their cottage at Lake Kegonsa.

BIG DISPLAY SIGN FOR CHEVROLET

Start Work on New Building—Huge Loading Dock to be Finished This Week.

Erection of two mammoth electric display signs on the roof of the Chevrolet plant on Industrial avenue will be completed within the near future, L. J. Stewart, factory manager, said Tuesday.

The two signs will be built 24 feet above the roof and will be 40 feet wide. The letters in the name will be approximately seven feet in size and when illuminated at night will be visible for long distances. They will be constructed in such a manner that they can be seen from all of the trains passing the plant.

Start New Building. Workmen started Monday upon the erection of the $12,000 driveway waiting room, directly across from the executive offices. The shed will be built of brick and stone with a red tile roof and will have all lobby accommodations, including a huge fireplace. There will also be parking space for the Chevrolet officials' automobiles. The waiting room will be connected with the main plant by a tunnel, which will carry light, telephone and steam pipe connections.

Placed by Rail. Completion of the driveway shed will be made by fall, Mr. Stewart announced. The shed will accommodate approximately 20 cars ready to be shipped to the dealers. Cars upon assembling in the factory will be driven across the street to the shed and driven out by the main gate, as soon as sales arrangements are completed in the main office.

Leading Dock About Completed. The huge loading dock on the north side of the assembly plant will be finished this week. It will be 500 feet long and 40 feet wide. Tracks on either side will give it an over-all coverage of 52 feet.

Pouring of concrete on the main entrance to the Chevrolet club on the Beloit road will also be finished up this week and work started upon setting up of the tennis courts opposite the building.

Will Beautify Grounds. It is the plan of the Chevrolet company, said Mr. Stewart, to make the grounds and buildings of the plant as beautiful as possible, and every effort will be made to do much of the planned work this year.

All overhead wires will soon be taken down and installed in the tunnels, in accordance with the policy of the organization. Two huge flower beds will be planted at the end of Industrial avenue, by the end of the month and grass planted on the east side of the street near the new buildings, as soon as they are completed.

Sam Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is fully conscious of the importance that President Coolidge attaches to the coal situation. That is why he has called on the new president two days in succession; why he has felt it necessary to place certain matters, certain data, before the new chief national morning. Organized labor is watching the new president with the keenness of a hawk. It, too, knows that Calvin Coolidge rode to popularity as a "workbreaker," and the "right to strike" is a jealously guarded principle among the labor leaders of the country.

WATER DELINQUENTS GIVEN TILL AUG. 18

"Come in and Save the Interest" is the slogan being sounded by City Clerk E. J. Sartell, acting city treasurer, in the case of those listed as delinquent on their water bills.

He is sending out letters to all such delinquents advising them that if these bills are not paid by Saturday noon, Aug. 18, a penalty of 15 per cent will be added, and if not paid before Nov. 1 an additional 5 per cent will be charged.

"We do not want to penalize you but, according to chapter 66 of the Wisconsin statutes," says the letter.

COOLIDGE FACING COAL STRIKE AND CRISIS OF CAREER

fame for the course he pursued in the policy strike at Boston with the governor of his state. All of his friends, all of the politicians in Washington—and there are legions of them here already—say that Mr. Coolidge will have his first test as president by the course he may pursue in the threatened walkout in the anthracite fields.

Settle Coal Situation. President Coolidge is pondering that situation above all others at the present moment. He has tried to choose his mind to everything of a political or economic nature during these days of the country's last tribute to its dead president, but time is inexorable and there is but a short time to study the coal problem before the date for closing down the mines is at hand.

There is no question but that the country will be quick to judge the new president by what he may or may not do in the coal strike. No president has ever found himself with such a personal problem on his hands so soon after taking up the reins of office—a problem so closely allied with his past reputation and so pregnant with possibilities as to his political future.

Gompers on Hand

President Coolidge, as president, has assumed the role of judge. He listens to all that may be said, asks perhaps a pertinent question or two, then reserves decision. He is never the opposing counsel. He declines to enter into the argument. If ever there was an executive with a judicial frame of mind, Calvin Coolidge is the man.

President Coolidge knows full well that his own political fortunes of the future are not to be judged by what he may or may not do in pressing the proposal that the United States adhere to the world court. That he believes in that principle of the world court and of American representation in it, has been established. But whatever he may do in furthering the ends he believes to be desirable in that direction will be put down in current history at least as but a carrying out of a Harding policy, conceived and offered to the world before there was any thought of Calvin Coolidge as an occupant of the White House.

President Coolidge knows that in the few short months that lie between him and his further destiny he is to be judged by his own personal and executive acts. The politicians who have gathered here and as one in saying that the country is in a mood today to "kill almost to canonize" a "strong man." If Calvin Coolidge is bold he may go a long way, they say; if he is over cautious he may be passed by. The very brevity of the months of opportunity that are before him call for sharp, incisive action, or they may go for naught.

As for the president himself, he is as silent as ever. He neither asks nor gives a confidence. To most of his callers he is inscrutable. There are no tell-tale expressions upon his grave, unsmiling face. It was difficult for President Harding to slide a emotion; it is just as difficult, it appears to his callers, for President Coolidge to express any. Most of his interviews are extremely short, for he but listens. He does not lend any sort of impetus or encouragement to the flow of conversation. He absorbs but he does not give out. He has no anecdotes to tell; nothing to prolong the stay of his visitor beyond the period that he desires in which to state his mission or make his argument.

CENTRAL EUROPE BREATHEES HATRED AND PENDING WAR

is now on a small scale armed to the teeth. The peace treaties that ended the European war were designed to give autonomy to aspiring nations but they could not have been intended to accomplish in five years the annihilation that must require a century or more.

Cooper Revolutionists. Nor can monarchies be overthrown and privileged classes be divested of their properties and interests without sowing the seed of counter revolution. So there is Hungary, now controlled by the monarchists, making way faces at the little republics which have been carved out of former Hungarian territory. The spirit of revenge is growing in Hungary. To fortify themselves against the return of monarchists there has been formed in central Europe a military alliance of Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugoslavia, known as the Little Entente. This triple alliance is yet as to when Secretaries Mellon, of the treasury department, and Davis, of the labor department, will be back from Europe. There will be nothing awhward, stiff or intensely formal about this first meeting of the cabinet with the new president for he has sat with the members of the official family ever since Mr. Harding entered the White House.

Hungary Wants Help

Hungary has been looking about for possible support in a military way in the event of serious trouble in the future, and naturally has turned to Italy because of the latter's inevitable clash with Jugoslavia over Plume. Hungary has been flirting with Germany and Great Britain because France openly has been helping the Little Entente.

The seeds of war are here. Were Hungary strong she would today be at war over her lost territory, and only a desire to preserve what they received at the Paris peace conference impels the Little Entente to stick together as against Hungary.

But the checks and balances of central Europe today can not be taken as an index of the future. They constitute a kind of political legerdemain in which chancellors and premiers engage as a means of assuring each other into mutually better relations. Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia, for instance, is at this very moment endeavoring to negotiate a commercial treaty with Hungary and conversations are going on in Vienna with that objective.

Czechoslovakia is a peace loving country and is exhorting a grant infuse once toward peace in central Europe.

Poland is not a member of the Little Entente but is on most intimate terms with Rumania and would have been admitted into the Little Entente but for boundary disputes with Czechoslovakia.

loan such as put Austria on her feet, but this cannot be obtained from the larger allied powers without the express consent of the Little Entente. So Czechoslovakia is using the loan proposals as a means of exerting an influence on Hungary to make the latter country more unstable. In other words, Hungary must give up the idea of bringing back the Hapsburgs and must accept the new order of things or else no help will be forthcoming. In fact, first of all Hungary must disarm as provided by the peace treaties. Her neighbors suspect her good faith on this point.

Once Hungary has made a new commercial treaty with Czechoslovakia she will earn the support of the Little Entente for a foreign loan, but under conditions even more drastic than those imposed upon Austria in respect to the receiver-generalship and foreign supervision of her armaments.

Slavs in Trouble. Jugoslavia is having plenty of trouble amalgamating the Croats, the Slovenes and the Serbs, and recently she forfeited the confidence of foreign bankers by excessive expenditures on armament instead of reconstruction. Only recently the Black group of American bankers decided not to lend any more money to Jugoslavia because it was reported the first $5,000,000 of what was to have been a fair sized loan was diverted for military purposes.

American capitalists are watching central Europe with intense interest. Their representatives are there, constantly studying the situation. They seem optimistic about the future. J. P. Morgan & Company, for instance, are reliably reported to have indirectly obtained control of one of the largest land banks in Austria, though formal denials have been made, probably for reasons of political delicacy in Austria where invasion of foreign capital could become a basis for political attacks by socialists on the existing Austrian regime.

American Aid. But the fact is that central Europe will some day be welded into an economic entity of great promise. American and British capital alone are available to help central Europe, and irrespective of the Washington government's policy of supposed isolation, there is a good deal of moral support being given efforts of American financial interests to get a fair share of business in this part of the world.

The larger powers can make these small nations behave. Talk of war is based on the presumption that isolation will be a permanent policy and not a fad. This is not likely to continue, however, when once France and Great Britain reach an agreement. Paris and Berlin hold the keys to the world's peace, for with indifference on the part of both there will be bloodshed again in central Europe before another generation has grown up.

SORROWFUL POMP MARKS CEREMONY UNDER BIG DOME

take his place also just at the hour
set for the departure.

Great Bell Tolls
As the cortege was forming under the shadows of the great trees, the bell in St. John's Episcopal church, across La Fayette Square, known as the "church of the presidents," began tolling its doleful lament at the passing of a great heart into the galaxy of immortals.
Not until the procession started did it become known that Mrs.
Harding had been with the body in the east room for a half hour alone at 1 o'clock this morning. She was alone at times, and at other times attended by one or two relatives.
But while officials were gathering at the funeral hour to take up their places in the cortege, she remained in her room, waiting for her grief.

Pastors Lead Way
Before the casket, as it was carried down the steps, walked the ministers selected to officiate in the retinue. They walked by side, past F. A. Jones, pastor of St. Paul's church, and Dr. J. M. Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives. Then came military and naval aides who had been near to the president.
Pennsylvania avenue the long singing, hitherto disturbed only by the chanting of the restful mounds of the troopers, was broken by singing of the funeral march, led by an army band, and the last journey of Warren G. Harding along the historic thoroughfare had begun between the dense crowds of humanity that lined the route.
The route of the cortege was the executive mansion to the towering capital,
a mile away.

Swords Flash in Salute
At the same time a band came to the portico and sounded shrilly the signal note soldier call to attention.
The cavalry opposite on the avenue came to a sharp salute, with their blades flashing in the sunlight. Then there was a flourish of the drums, and the guns of Fort Myer, across the silent Potomac, awoke the echoes with a salute to the departed comrade.

where the great gray pile of the cap-

her and the casket, with its single great wreath, rode the pall bearers members of the cabinet, representatives of the judiciary and senators.
Next behind her followed Calvin Coolidge, suddenly called to take up his chief's shoulders.
His inscrutable face showed a grief
and a realization of the grave moment in which he was standing.

Just and Wilson.
There followed then another presidential son of Ohio, whom death had spared in the presidency to permit him to take up a great duty as chief justice of the United States.
William Woodrow Taft, loved by all who knew him, was in the solemn cortege as a mourner.

Then came a figure who was a reminder, too, of a happier and happier days. Woodrow Wilson had come from the seclusion and quiet of the home where he bravely and patiently waits for his summons from the Creator, to show his respect. Only a little while ago he rode the same way, with Warren Harding beside him in the full bloom of vigorous life, about to take up the burden he was laying down. Harding's consideration for the old man beside him, his every heart and dimmed many eyes that day
—it touched Woodrow Wilson's heart as few things had.

Teary Greet Hymn
If there is a music that does not feel a catch in his throat or whose heart does not beat faster when the Marine band plays "Onward Christian Soldiers," he did not stand on the steps of the White House today.
The funeral march, led by an army band, and the last journey of Warren
G. Harding along the historic thoroughfare had begun between the dense crowds of humanity that lined the route.

And, as the silver tones mounted up and echoed back in the canyon of the great street, the great thoroughfare, that stole down many cheeks and many eyes were dim.
But as they entered the sweeping expansion of the plaza the bands fell silent. And a music like the quiet of the tomb, the infant of the escort formed its line across the entire front, the marines took up their station to the north of the steps of the rotunda and the blue jackets detached into a line opposite the capitol to the south. Only the sharp commands cut into the oppressive silence.

Soldiers in khaki, sailors in white,
marines in blue, the long columns of the military and naval forces sombre save for the flags drooping at half staff from the office above.

A simple, kindly gentleman lay dead; yet military honors were his right such as no general or admiral shall know, for his spoke in life with the voice of the whole people, commanding the people's army, the people's navy. And they moved gladly to obey that voice.

Tens of Thousands.
Long before the troops came marching to their places to wait with bayonets fixed until the sharp call of trumpets set them moving eastward to lead this fallen comrade to his long rest, the people of Washington and all the cities about had trooped down to their humble places inside the steel strands that kept wide Pennsylvania avenue clear from end to end for the sorrowful spectacle. They came by thousands and tens of thousands to line the way with banks of silent, living tribute to the dead.

Among the bare heads were many,
touched now with gray, that thus honored the martyred McKinley as he was carried over the same way to the same crowning honors and digni-ties that today awaited his fellow Ohioan.

Feel Personal Loss.
But to the younger folk, who have known the wide thoroughfare only in its days of joy and triumph, this parade of sorrow brought a sense of personal loss and depression. They saw the unknown carried westward

He was married April 11, 1910, to Miss Birdella Merrick and soon after they moved to Port Edwards, where

LATEST MARKET REPORT

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.—New York displayed a firm tone at opening of the stock market. Standard Oil, Bethlehem Steel and a number of other leaders improved fractionally. Rails were again in fair demand, Delaware and Hudson rising 1/4, and Erie and Erie preferred carriers making nominal gains. Some of the minor oils were again heavy.

The main trend continued upward in the early dealings, with tobacco shares in particular showing a decided advance. Foreign exchanges quoted at 100 cents a million.

Cheese Market.—The cheese market here Tuesday on the whole appeared less active, but the firm feeling still prevailed. Asking prices for the higher grades were in line with Monday's advance in the country. Demand for square prints was very light. Longhorns were in light supply, but there has been very little difficulty in filling orders on this grade.

EVANSVILLE

Mrs. L. M. Miller.—Evansville.—Orders have been received at the local post office for the change in the carrier on the return trip will follow highway 104 to Crawford's Corner, west to the Tueler school house, south to the home of Ernest Miller, back to the Jones longhorns and west on the old route. This leaves Frank Frances and Mrs. Sidney Slater out, and accommodates Fred Morrison, Frank Judd, Charles Morrison, Elaine Lewis and James Lamb. The change will go into effect Aug. 16.

The regular meeting of the Masons was held Monday night. Plans were made to hold memorial services Aug. 29 in the Oregon cemetery in honor of Nathaniel Ames, on the anniversary of his burial. Mr. Ames was the last surviving Wisconsin veteran of the Revolutionary war, he died at the age of 122 years, 69 years ago, and was buried Aug. 30, 1862. He was a member of the local lodge No. 32. Other lodges will be invited to the exercises. Mr. Ames is a grand father of Paul Ames, formerly of Evansville, and a grandfather of Merian Ames, Brooklyn.

A. J. Geisler, route 17, was kicked in the back by one of his horses Monday and taken to Mercy hospital Tuesday. It is thought that he will recover.

Mrs. Sever Gyrode, Lake Field, Minn., returned home after visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Judd.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnson returned Tuesday from their northern trip. A son was born to them at St. J. Shoemaker at Mercy hospital July 27. He will be named Milton Jackson Jr. Mrs. Shoemaker was formerly Miss Maude Forner. Mrs. Shoemaker, who has been here for the past two weeks with her wife and baby at the home of Henry Porter, left for their home in Buffalo, N. Y., Wednesday.

The Misses Mary Balrd, Charlotte Colony and Genevieve Patterson spent Tuesday in Janesville.

FAIR NOTES

Flags at Half-Mast.—All flags and there are many all over the grounds, are flying at half-mast out of respect to the memory of the dead president.

Chicken Dinner Stand.—The same old tricks are attracting attention along the midway, and the same old products are for sale. There is even a cotton candy machine. Ice cream sandwiches are popular this year, while cones, pop, hamburgers and hot dogs enjoy their usual popularity. One of the improvised lunch stands offers chicken dinners, which is quite a new thing for the fair.

Rain Hits Ferris Wheel.—Between putting the covers on the seats when the rain began, and taking them off when the sun came out, the ferris wheel did not have much time to do business, Tuesday.

Improvements Gain Favor.—The improvements on the grandstand cause many favorable comments. The new grandstand, even though it was first thought, all Tuesday appearances would be called off. The regular band for the day was from Edgerton and it won much applause for its good playing.

Free Attractions Good.—It was accorded by all that the free attractions of the day and night fair are by far the best that the Janesville Fair has ever had. Secretary Oscar Nelson of the fair board promised this the opening day of the fair, and it has now been proved true. The best liked acts here the Sensational Elliotts, who indeed proved themselves sensational on the bars and ladders that reached far into the sky, and the three Riding Roomies.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

BEFORE this week's program of harness races at the Janesville fair is over, followers of the horses will be pleased at the biggest innovation in the history of the local track, familiarly known as "The Lexington of the North." That new thing is the paddock provided by Dr. Guy C. Wauke, director of speed. While the horses are tearing around the track, with their drivers putting them to their best or holding them in, the fans are happy and excited. It is while the steeds are scoring and while the drivers are being called from the barns, that the folks in the stands get tight. With the paddock plan, it will be the fault of the drivers if they do not get out on the turf speedily when the starter rings for them.

THE PLAN of Dr. Wauke to put up an added purse of $100 for the horse that breaks the track record is another valuable asset. Nothing thrills the audience so much as to see a horse break the track record. Just now, the maker of a new mark, and that mark does not have to be a world breaker to give a punch of excitement. It was expected by the time this is read the plan will be in force.

ATTENDANTS at the Janesville fair races this year will see exciting finish, no matter what the race. Nothing faster than a 2:10 trot means little from the entertainment standpoint. Grand circuit winners, first place takers in the smaller events, and spectators alike will be among the starters. Starter Stone promises to cut the scoring to a minimum, so that there will be plenty of action. Horsesmen are expected to see a good start. The only thing that will cut down the speed may be a slightly heavy track, but a brisk breeze will lessen any such disadvantage.

Track Laying Fast on Opening Day's Big Races

HORSEMEN READY, CROWDS FLOCKING TO BIGGER STAND

"The track is in fine condition." That was the first word sent out Wednesday morning to the hosts of the fair grounds. The track was ready to open Wednesday afternoon to occupy the stands for the first time of the week at "The Lexington of the North."

The track was ready to open Wednesday afternoon to occupy the stands for the first time of the week at "The Lexington of the North."

By starting time at 2 p. m. the track should be fast. It will be a blessing, laying the heavy dust accumulated for a week. The draining system installed last year, through the efforts of Charles S. Putnam, former superintendent of speed, has worked smoothly. It carried off a surplus of water that otherwise would have hindered racing.

Wednesday is Janesville day, an occasion that always brings forth the biggest crowd of the week. At 12:30 p. m. the first arrivals were starting to flock into the stands. The old grandstand was beginning to fill first with a large number taking to the new benches.

Passing the year will find 700 more seats than last year. A large addition has been placed in front of the old grandstand. This is devoted entirely to the spectators.

Races on Thursday are the 2:14 trot stake with 28 entries and a purse of $1,000; 2:32 pace stake with 27 entries and a $1,000 purse; and a 2:20 pace with 13 entries and $500 purse.

Though not expected to win, horsemen are watching Cecil Williams on Thursday, a bay mare by Hedgewood Boy, owned by H. E. McNutt of Oxford.

This horse is in the 2:30 pace. Last week, the little four year old bay turned in a mile in 2:06, one of the fastest seen in workouts this season. It did the last quarter in 30.4. The probabilities are that since she is not stable, the driver will not put her to the limit.

Janesville Team Feared in Twin-State Golf Meet

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Freeport—Play in the 72 holes of match competition against boys in the annual tournament of the southern Wisconsin-Northern Illinois Golf association started here at 8 a. m. Wednesday. Players from nine clubs are entered.

The team from Janesville got away to a snappy start. The golfers put up by the Bowler city men at Beloit last year by which they were leading in first place at the end of the first day's play is remembered by the other clubs. While the Janesville quintet has not the same members as in 1922, yet the ability of its representatives is not being underestimated.

Burns Brewer of the Janesville team is one of the longest drivers in the association. If he is putting right, he is a mighty dangerous opponent. Dr. S. F. Richards of the Bowler city is a steady golfer and worthy for runner-up. Each member of the winning team will receive an individual prize. There will be a prize for low medalist for the 72 holes and for second low. Low medalist on each team will receive a reward.

Charles Bench, Rockford, last year's champion, will defend his title of club champion and will be at Rockford, Freeport, Dixon, Polo, Belvidere, DeKalb and Woodstock.

100 mile race at Milwaukee, June 10, Frank Chiverton, Milwaukee, Tenn. Graves, Waupun, with Ford Special.

Though only the half mile track will be used, Novicki and the other drivers, says Trudell, will make 1:10 or better.
